

How the Hungarian Students Remember Cles and Italy...

Erasmus+ Italy – Kubisch Dániel

Connect to a right net. It was the title of the project, according to this it's not hard to find out what was our task.

After four of us were chosen we got our task, we had to make a presentation about internet safety, for this we also got links for English websites about the subject, we had to learn the words belonging to this theme and we also learned various things... After some arranging with the teachers, the final version of our presentation was ready, the only thing that was left was presenting it, but for it we had to travel to the city of Cles which is located in the northern part of Italy.

Even though it wasn't my first flight I enjoyed it as it was. Above the snowy mountains of the Alps the view was stunning. After landing in Milano we took a bus to Cles. We met the host families in front of the school and they took us home where the dinner was waiting on us.

The next day we started to do our task, we had several presentations, after it for relaxation we made a walk in the city. When we arrived back to school we had lunch, all of nations who came to Italy gathered and the four groups were announced, every group had students from every country, the common language was English.

In the next days we were sightseeing in northern Italy. We visited the new museum: MUSE, then Verona, where we visited the house of Juliet and the ancient amphitheater and the museum of Ötzi.

We didn't only learn the dangers of the internet but we also learned how beautiful the Alps are and we learned about the culture in northern Italy.

I was in Italy with the Erasmus+ project. My host family was very kind and helpful. The first day we met each other and had to make a logo for the project and write a Romeo and Juliet plot. The second day we had a conference in which we talked about the day's program including Safe Internet Day and visiting Trento. We spent the whole third day in Bolzano. The fourth day we were in Verona where we visited Juliet's house when we were inside, I stepped on the balcony looking down at the ground expecting Romeo to be there. He wasn't so we went on to the La Arena. The fifth day the one part of the group went home, but we stayed with the Greeks for one more day. I think it was an instructive journey where I met a lot of interesting people from different countries. I think I enjoyed the most was that I became a very good friend of AnnaGiorgia.

First I want to say, that I only had one problem with the whole Erasmus+ program: it was too short. I can't describe this one week which I have spent in Italy. It would be hard to tell anyone the feeling what I had, as I have met students from other countries, as I've talked with them and learned about their traditions. How could I write down what I think about the fact that I have been in a house in Verona whose owner is not a real character from Shakespeare. I couldn't really describe it as I couldn't describe how calm, and kind were all the Italian people. For example the family where I was living were very friendly, but this is true for all the teachers and students who took part in the programs. And this is my problem with the program, because we got a week when we became friends with the others and it was very hard to say goodbye, most likely because we knew that we will probably never meet again.

TRAVELOGUE – ERASMUS + ITALY

by DEMETER NATÁLIA

Four students, included me, from Budapest, had an important task.

We travelled to Italy to talk about how can we make the internet safer and how can we be protected. Our team made a Power Point presentation as the other students about the safe internet usage, we also made some logos and posters for this program and evaluated the results of the questionnaire that 200 students had to fill at home. But there were not only work, we had fun with the other students from Spain, Greece, Poland, Italy, Turkey, Romania and Bulgaria.

I have to say that all of the people who were there, were kind, clever and good people. On Sunday we arrived to Italy and the host families took us home. The students could make friends with the family members and with the other project mates, we could eat traditional dishes and meet with the Italian culture. The following day we had a chance to walk around in Cles, where the school is, and we worked on the tasks of the project.

On Tuesday we travelled to Trento to visit the MUSE museum, which was amazing and interesting and had a lot of interactive „games”.

On Wednesday and Thursday the teams and their teachers went to Bolzano to see Ötzi, the frozen man and to walk around the town, and travelled to Verona to see the Arena and Juliet's house and to see the sights. On Friday the Greek and the Hungarian team had to say goodbye to the rest of the group, because they had to leave that day. It was a sad moment, everybody cried and were melancholic, but the life didn't stop those who stayed, because we had to finish the tasks.

That day, in the afternoon, my host family took my groupmate and me to see a very special church in the mountains, which has been built on a huge mountain. The landscape was breathtaking: under us were pinewoods, streams and snow, up above us the cloudy sky. The other interesting thing about the church is that: there living bears.

The last day, on Saturday we had to get up early because the two team and their teachers had to leave from Cles at half past six in the morning. We had a 3-hour-long roadtrip from Cles to the airport, then there we had to say goodbye to the others and that was sad again. For me that was an exceptional and amazing experience, because I've never really been abroad, I have never had a flight (which was funny and cool), and I have never had a chance to live and meet with other students from other countries.

I would like to say thank you for all the people who gave me a chance to be a part of this program, and all the people who were there and made this trip an unforgettable remembrance. (Not all the pictures were taken by me!)
